VALUABLE FLORIDA FARM FOR SALE.

I offer my tract of land for sale, lying in Columbia County, four miles west of Lake City, Fla., containing Twelve Hundred Acres.

Three hundred of which is cleared and in fine condition for cultivation. A good portion of the tract, both cleared and uncleared, is fine hammock land, rendering it quite a valuable tract. Besides, it has on it a two story framed dwelling, with nine rooms and a piazza sixty feet long, double kitchen, smoke house, negro cabins, corn cribs, stables, carriage house, several large granaries, wagon sheds, three wells of water, [one of them the best water in all that section of country,] sixty orange trees in the yard, and an orchard of two hundred peach trees.

The location is a pleasant one and as healthy as any part of any other State. All the advantages of this farm combined renders it one of the few really valuable and desirable homes offered for sale.

For further information in regard to terms, etc., address me at Oxford, Granville County, N. C.

SOUTHERN FERTILIZING COMPANY,

Richmond Va,

Colonel William Gilham,

(late Professor of Chemistry at the Virginia Military Institute,)

CHEMIST AND SUPERINTENDENT.

This COMPANY having placed in their works the most modern and approved MACHINERY, will be prepared on the FIRST OF AUGUST to furnish FERTILIZERS on an extensive scale, compounded under the immediate supervision of the eminent chemist named above.

They propose to offer for sale:

PURE PERUVIAN GUANO,

(warranted free from admixture,) ground and pulverized; thus avoiding for the farmer the necessity of breaking up the lumps, and not only saving him from loss by waste, but securing him uniformity and regularity in its application.

MANIPULATED GUANO,

composed of pure Peruvian and Phosphatic Guano in equal proportions, finely ground and thoroughly incorporated.

OLD DOMINION GUANO,

composed of Peruvian and Phosphatic Guano, in combination with other ingredients, and containing four per cent. of ammonia.

PLASTER,

finely ground from the best Nova Scotia lump. None will be used not strictly adapted to agricultural purposes.

BONE DUST.

A large quantity of bones having been purchased, a constant supply of pure Bone Dust will be kept on hand.

This company commends itself to the patronage of the Southern agricultural community as a HOME INSTITUTION, under the management of one practically acquainted with Southern lands, and thoroughly competent to decide upon the best agents for their permanent improvement. Under his control the public have assurance that nothing will be offered them that is not of real and intrinsic value.

The undersigned, composing the above company, offer their personal guarantee, in connection with Colonel Gilham, that their Fertilizers shall be as represented.

Liberal arrangements will be made with commission merchants and grocers, who are invited to confer with the President (post office box 974.)

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE,

LOCATED IN AND ADJOINING THE TOWN OF WARRENTON, N. C.

FOR SALE.

The Warrenton Female College is now offered for sale, on reasonable terms. This College has been in successful operation, for over twelve years, and, during that time, it has earned a reputation as an Institution of learning, second to none in N. C.

The location is such as to warrant a full attendance of pupils, being very accessible from any point, especially the Eastern portions of N. C. and Va.

The Committee, who have been empowered to make sale of this property, deem it unnecessary to say more of this Institution as its character for a high grade of scholarship, and the elevated standard of morals inculcated, under the eye and supervision of its late President, E. E. Parham, is already well known.

The society in which this College is located is known to be equal to any in the South.

There is now a sufficiency of Buildings and other Conveniences attached to this Real Estate, to conduct a large and flourishing school. The premises contain about SIXTY ACRES of Land a material portion of which is within the Corporation. This, with all or a part of the furniture, &c., belonging to the same, can be purchased with the land and buildings. This property will be offered privately for sale until Wednesday the 3rd day October next, and, if not then sold, will be on that day sold, at public auction, to the highest bidder.

The Committee are fully authorized to sell, and would say that a rare chance is offered to any party wishing to purchase such property, as time sufficient, if required, will be given. Possession given immediately.

Any person or party wishing to examine the property will be shown it by, E. E Parham, the present occupant, or by any one or more of the Committee.

DISCOURSE

In Memory of the Life and Character

OF THE

HON. GEO. E. BADGER.

Delivered, by Request of the Bar of Wake County, at Raleigh, July 19th, 1866,

BY

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,

OF ORANGE.

My acquaintance with Mr. Badger commenced in the latter part of the Summer of eighteen hundred and twenty-five. He had already completed his service as a Judge, which office he resigned at the close of the Spring circuit of that year; had contested the palm of forensic eloquence and professional learning with Seawell and Gaston, with a wide increase of reputation, at the recent term of the Supreme Court, and was returned to the practice in Orange, where he had once resided, in generous competition with Murphy and Nash, Yancey and Mangum, Hawks, Haywood and others,—Mr. Ruffin, hitherto the leader of this bar, having been appointed his successor on the bench of the Superior Court.

He was then a little turned of thirty years of age. One half of the time since his majority had been passed upon the bench, yet his fame as a lawyer was fully established; and though he doubtless afterwards added vastly to his stores of erudition, in quickness of perception, readiness of comprehension, clear and forcible reasoning, elegant and imposing diction, in all that constitutes an orator and advocate, he had attained an eminence hardly surpassed at any period of his life. From that time, and before it I know not how long, till the day he was stricken by the disease which terminated his life, in North Carolina, at least, his name was on every tongue. He was not only a marked, and distinguished, but an eminent man. So bright and shining a character could not but attract general observation; and though and while, with a gay and hilarious nature, frank, but somewhat eccentrical manners, and unequalled powers of conversation, united with some infirmity of temper, his expressions and conduct in the earlier half of his life were often the subject of severe criticism; yet, in the long period of from forty to fifty years, in which he moved "in the high places of the world," no one denied to him the gifts of most extraordinary talents and unswerving integrity and truthfulness. Even in the particulars in which complaint had been made, an imputed hauteur and exclusiveness, his dispositions were either mellowed by time, or, what is more probable, his character came to be better appreciated from being better understood; and for years before his sad eclipse from useful life, no man enjoyed more of the general confidence and favor of the people, as none had possessed in a higher degree their admiration.

> "Hard is his fate on whom the public gaze
> Is fixed forever, to detract or praise;"

Transferred to the more extended field of jurisprudence administered in the Courts of the United States, and afterwards to the Senate of the nation, he took rank with the first advocates, jurisprudents and debaters of the Union; and the purity of his morals, the elevation of his character, his readiness and accomplishments as a conversationist, the gayety and vivacity of his manners, rendered him a general favorite with old and young, the grave and gay in the brilliant society of the metropolis in his day, and will cause him to be remembered among the most renowned and gifted Americans of the age in which we live.

An individual so admired, so deserving of admiration when living, may well claim the tribute of a suitable memorial when dead.—Hence the resolutions of the gentlemen of the bar in Wake, the County of his residence, and the imperfect attempt to execute them by the ceremonies which have brought us together.

GEORGE EDMUND BADGER was born in Newbern, North Carolina, on the 17th of April, 1795. His father, Thomas Badger, Esq., the son of Edmund and Lucretia Badger, was a native of Connecticut, and his birth is recorded to have taken place at Windham, in that State, on the 27th of June, 1766. Having received a good education, he came in early manhood to Newbern and then to Spring Hill, in the County of Lenoir, where for some time he taught a school, but was then probably a student of the Law, and was in due time admitted to the practice of the profession in this State. Fixing his residence at Newbern, he early rose to distinction as a practitioner, and appears in the published reports as one of the leading counsellors in the Courts of that riding, and in the Supreme Court of the State, from 1792 till his death, which occurred from yellow fever while in attendance on a Court at Washington, in Beaufort County, on the 10th of October, 1799.

The traditions of the profession, and other intelligent persons of his acquaintance, represent him as a man of determined character, and great intellectual and professional ability, and leave the question in doubt whether, at the same period of life, he was more than equalled by his son. The late Peter Browne, himself one of the first lawyers and men of letters of his time in North Carolina, a cotemporary at the bar of the senior Badger, spoke of him, before the entrance of his son into public life, as one of the ablest men he had ever known, and especially as possessing a power to fascinate and control masses of men in the most remarkable degree,—a power, he added, which the son might exert with similar effect, if he would.

The correctness of this opinion of Mr. Browne was fully verified by the addresses to popular assemblies of the subject of our notice, twenty years and more after it was expressed.

His mother, by name Lydia Cogdell, was the daughter of Col. Richard Cogdell, of Newbern, a gentleman of much consideration under the Provincial rule in North Carolina, and an active and bold leader in the movement of the Revolution. As early as August 1775, his name appears second in the list of the committee of safety for Newbern district, appointed by the first Congress of the Province, (that of Alexander Gaston being at the head,) and the perforation made by a musket ball fired at his person by a British or loyalist soldier, during the occupation of that town by the royal forces under Major Craig, in 1781, is still visible in the door of his mansion in Newbern. This lady was a person of singular vigor of mind and character, well fitted to encounter the cares and trials of her early widowhood. Her husband had experienced that which has been said to be the common lot of the profession in this country, "to work hard, live well and die poor," and left her with but little fortune to rear three children, of whom George was the eldest, and the only son.

According to her narrative, he manifested no fondness for books, and made little progress in learning till about seven years of age. At that period she placed in his hands Goldsmith's Animated Nature. He was delighted with its perusal, and she never found it necessary to stimulate his thirst for knowledge afterwards. His preparatory course was taken in his native town of Newbern, and at the age of fifteen he entered Yale College. There he passed through the studies of the Freshman and Sophomore classes, when his education, so far as depended on schools, was brought to a close. A relative, a man of fortune at the North, who had hitherto furnished the means for his college expenses, (his own patrimony being wholly insufficient,) and from whose bounty he had hoped to pass on to graduation, suddenly withdrew his support and left him to his own exertions. Of the motives for this unexpected arrest in his college career, on which so much might have depended, it is useless, now at least, to speculate or inquire. But it will be a source of gratification to his friends to be assured that it was attributable to no demerit in our student. True, his cotemporaries at Yale differ widely in their estimation of his capacities while there. The Northern students, who belonged to a different society, regarded him as a frolicsome youth, averse to mathematics, and fond of novel reading, who gave no indications of superior endowments.

On the other hand, a college classmate and member of the same society, who knew him intimately throughout life, and was five and twenty years associated with him at the bar, affirms that "he was, beyond dispute, the first boy of his class composed of seventy individuals, many of them afterwards distinguished men. He was not," says this friend, "a hard student of the prescribed course. Perhaps I ought to add, that he was remiss in his college duties, but he was eager for information to a most wonderful degree, and among his fellow-students he exhibited the same intellectual superiority, we have seen him so steadily maintain among men." To the same source I am indebted for the following observations concerning his elocution, which I repeat for the advantage and encouragement of the young. I think he remarks: "that the thousands who listened to the fluency with which Mr. Badger spoke, the clearness of his enunciation, the exact accuracy of his sentences and the carefulness of their formation—the right words always in the right places—will be surprised to learn that in his youthful attempts in debate he was almost a stammerer; I have heard him say he owed exemption from downright stuttering to his father, whom he remembered with affection, though under five years of age at the period of his decease, who would not permit him to speak while he hesitated in the least, but required him to stand by his side perfectly silent, until he had collected himself and arranged his thoughts. He, himself, often asserted that any one could speak fluently who thought clearly and did not lose his presence of mind."

He made known to President Dwight the reception of the letter announcing the withdrawal of the patronage by which he had been thus far supported, and the res angusta domi which caused him to bid adieu to Yale, when reaching the portion of her curriculum by which his expanding mind would have most profited, and left with the regrets and kind wishes of that venerable divine and instructor. In after years when he had established a character, his alma mater honored herself by volunteering a degree to her barely risen Junior, and enrolling his name among her sons with whom he should have graduated in 1818, as, at a later period, she acknowledged his still higher advancement in liberal learning, by conferring upon him the grade of Doctor of Laws.

He appears to have indulged in no unavailing grief at the freak of fortune which blasted his hopes of a collegiate education, but returning home, though but a little over seventeen years of age, betook himself at once to the study of the Law. His legal preceptor was his maternal cousin, the Hon. John Stanly, of Newbern, who as an advocate, a statesman, a Parliamentarian, a wit and adept in conversation, is one of the historical characters of North Carolina; and who, viewing him as I did, from the gallery of the House of Commons in my boyhood, impressed me as an orator of more graceful and elegant manner and action, according to my conception of the Ciceronian standard, than any public speaker it has ever been my fortune to hear.

Mr. Badger was granted a license to practice the Law in the County Courts in the summer of 1814, and, according to the usual probation, in the Superior Courts in 1815; the Judges of the Supreme Court consenting to relax the ordinary rule and overlook his non-age, by reason of the narrowness of his fortune and the dependence of his mother and sisters upon his exertions for their support.

The war with England raging in the former year, and an invasion of the State being threatened by the British forces under Admiral Cockburne, then hovering on our coasts, Governor Hawkins called out the militia, and, himself, took the field in an expedition for the defence of Newbern and Beaufort. In this expedition Mr. Badger served as aid-de-camp to General Calvin Jones, of Wake, with the rank of Major, but the alarm soon ceasing with the retirement of the enemy, the soldier was again resolved into the youthful barrister. A vacancy occurring in the office of Solicitor to prosecute the Pleas of the State in that riding, about this time, he was introduced to public notice by the temporary appointment from the Judge, and made one circuit in that capacity. In 1816, the year of his majority, he was returned a member of the House of Commons, from the town of Newbern; and whatever advantages he may have lost by his retirement from College, (and they were doubtless many and important,) it may well be questioned whether any of the more fortunate youths he had left behind in the classic shades of Yale, were, by this time, better fitted to play a distinguished part in a deliberative assembly or a court of justice. What, with the instruction of Stanly, the conversation, intercourse, and example of that accomplished gentleman, and his compeers, Gaston, Edward Graham, Moses Mordecai, and others, whom he met at the bar, or in society, but above all by his own profound study (which the vivacity of his nature, and the brilliancy of his parts, were calculated to keep out of view,) he had not only made great attainments in the Law, but, what is now I fear becoming rare, a familiar acquaintance with the classic authors of English literature, and with the arts of rhetoric and composition; and wrote and spoke our language with a readiness, force, precision, and propriety, the more remarkable because equally conspicuous in jocose and trifling conversation, (in which he freely indulged) as in public address. As a critic, whether under the inspiration of a "good or bad natured muse," he has had few peers among the judges of "English undefiled." His appearance in the Legislature was the advent of a new star above the horizon; somewhat erratic and peculiar in its orbit, but effulgent even in its irregularities, and, when the subject or the occasion required mature thought and was within the range of his studies and information, shining with a splendor not unworthy of the oldest and greatest lights of the firmament.

Tradition furnishes anecdotes of many encounters during the session of gladiatorial skill, in which his love of pleasantry and the gaudia certaminis involved him with the late Attorney General Drew, a son of genius and of Erin, and others, with various success: but it assures us, that this, his first and last session in the General Assembly, closed with a profound impression and universal acknowledgment of his genius, culture and high promise for the future.

The Hon. Thomas Ruffin, the Speaker of the House of Commons, who had been first appointed a Judge of the Superior Courts during this session, discovering in Mr. Badger a congenial spirit, alike emulous with himself of liberal culture and professional distinction, invited him to take his briefs and pursue the practice in Orange. The acceptance of this proposition carried him to Hillsborough as his place of residence, for the ensuing two or three years, during which, having married the daughter of the Honorable James Turner, of Warren, he transferred his home to Warrenton and thence to Louisburg; where he continued to reside until his retirement from the bench in 1825, when he removed to Raleigh, and there abided during the residue of his life.

How well he had maintained his professional character in the new field of his practice is attested by the fact, that with but little of what is known as personal popularity, he was appointed a Judge of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity by the Legislature in its session of 1830, at the age of twenty-five. In this office he rode the circuits four years with admitted ability, candor and impartiality, as a magistrate, evading no question and no duty, but, on the contrary, thought sometimes to err from quickness of temper and too great readiness to assume responsibility; with a courtesy to the profession which won general esteem, and with the admiration of the public; which, though sometimes murmuring at the severity of a sentence or a supposed arbitrary or whimsical order, regarded, with equal wonder, the promptness and force with which he discussed questions of law with the veterans at the bar on the various ridings, and the intelligent, amusing and instructive conversation, with which he habitually entertained his acquaintances and associates, and which made him a marked personage in every circle that he entered. I mention a single case in his administration of the law as illustrative both of the firm and impartial hand with which he dealt out justice, and the jealous care with which the Judiciary of North Carolina has ever maintained the protection and rights of the weak against the strong and influential. A citizen of great fortune and advanced age, who had represented his county in earlier years in either House of the Legislature, and of numerous and influential connexions, charging a free negro with larceny upon his property had brought him by warrant before a Justice of the Peace, and prevailed on the Justice to try and convict him of the allegation, and sentence him to punishment by stripes, which were inflicted—a proceeding allowable by law, provided the offender had been a slave. But here the culprit was a free man; and by the constitution entitled to public trial in open Court before a Jury of the country. The Prosecutor, with the Justice and Constable, was arraigned before the Superior Court for this violation of law, and their guilt being established, Judge Badger, who happened to preside at this term, was strongly inclined to imprisonment of the principal defendant, and was only deterred from its imposition by reason of his age and state of health; but, announcing that this was omitted from that cause only, sentenced him to a fine of twelve hundred dollars, the Justice to fifty and the Constable to ten dollars, the differences being made on account of the several grades of intelligence, and consequent criminality as well as of ability to pay.

From the time of his return to the bar and location at the seat of government, until the access of disease which suddenly, and, as it proved, finally, arrested his course, he was devoted to the practice of his profession; with a suspension for a few months occasioned by his call to the head of the Navy Department as a Cabinet counsellor of President Harrison, which was continued under the succession of Mr. Tyler until his separation from the party by which he was elected, and such further interruption as was produced by his occupation of a seat in the Senate of the United States from 1846 to 1855. During this forensic career of almost unexampled renown and undisputed ability, he was at different times proposed by Executive nomination, for the bench of the Supreme Court, both of his own State and of the United States; but the spirit of party exacted a denial of his confirmation by the assenting authorities, though of his eminent qualifications no man doubted. He appeared in all the great causes argued in the Supreme Court of the State and the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of North Carolina, during this period; and in the latter portion of it, in many of those in the Supreme Court of the United States. If it be true, as remarked by Pinckney, in one of his familiar letters published by Wheaton, that "the bar is not a place to acquire or preserve a false or fraudulent reputation for talents," it was eminently so in his case.

He had an intrepid and self-reliant mind which, disdaining artifice, timidity or caution, struck out into the open field of controversy with the daring of conscious power, and shunned no adversary not clad in the panoply of truth; was as ready to challenge the authority of Mansfield or Denman, Roslyn or Eldon, if found deflecting from the paths of principle or precedent, as that of meaner names. If, from want of opportunity or inclination, he had failed to master the mathematics of numbers, he made himself a proficient in the mathematics of life (as our law from the exactness of rule at which it aims has been not inaptly denominated) and by a rigorous logic was prompt to expose whatever could not bear the test of reason. Yet, it was a logic free from the pedantry of the schools, apparently not derived from books, and accompanied by a rapidity of mental action, giving to it the appearance of intuition.

Whether in analysis or synthetical reasoning, in dealing with facts before juries or the most intricate question of law before courts, those faculties were equally conspicuous, and attended, when occasion called for their use, with powers of humor, sarcasm and ridicule hardly inferior to those of ratiocination. Added to all which, there was a lucidness of arrangement, an exact grammatical accuracy in every sentence, a forcible and graceful style, which, independently of a clear and distinct enunciation, a melodious voice and engaging manner, imparted even to his extemporaneous arguments the charms of polished composition.

He was never ostensibly a severe student, but his learning in his profession was profound and necessarily the fruit of much study, acquired probably not by regular reading of elementary books, but whenever in his practice, which was extensive, or by other means, his curiosity became excited on any topic, he pursued it until he had mastered it in all its ramifications,—a habit of mind, which he was accustomed to apply to other subjects, historical, literary, or scientific, to which his attention might be attracted, and especially to that exalted science to which further allusion may be made in the sequel. His familiar acquaintances, however, I think, must be satisfied, that he was greatly favored in the ease and rapidity with which he acquired knowledge, and will concur in the remark made by one of the most distinguished members of the profession, soon after my first introduction to him, that "he could learn more in the ame time than any man he had ever known."

He attained a high degree of knowledge in every branch of the law; whether in the doctrine of real estate transmitted by Coke, and cotemporaries from the days of the Tudors, and before the modifications introduced by commerce and the higher civilization of more recent times; the supplemental code of equity jurisprudence, invented to eke out the scanty justice of rude Barons and ignorant feudatories, and to apply rules of morality to the affairs of men; or in the criminal law, and the subjects of jurisdiction peculiar to the courts of the United States. And in the altercations of parties through their counsel in writing, which we style pleadings, (designed, by a severe logic, to present their points of disagreement for the decision of courts and juries,) in all these departments his productions were models which might be safely transferred to books of precedents for the instruction of his juniors; an adeptness, ascribable, not more to the acuteness of his understanding, than to his accomplishments as an English linguist and critic, causing a false inference, or ungrammatical phrase, to elicit his disapprobation like a false note on the ear of a musician.

These resources were ever at the command of his brethren, and of the court, before which some of his highest efforts were made, in causes in which arguments had been invited, or in which the subject of contest attracted his thoughts from its connexion with his favorite studies, and were delivered to no other auditors save those whose presence was required by duty. On an occasion of this kind, in a case of indictment for blasphemy, the question was raised whether the Christian religion was a part of the common law, with a suggestion that, if it was, it might be altered by statute, Mr. Badger volunteered an argument for the cause of religion and sound morality. It so happened, that as he opened his case, a venerable citizen of the State, of great intelligence, entered the court room to speak a word to the reporter, expecting immediately to retire. He was, however, so fascinated with the manner of the speaker, the splendor of his diction, the copiousness of his theological and legal learning, the force and clearness of his arguments and the precision with which they were stated, that he sat down and heard him to the close, observing, as he withdrew, "what folly ever to have made him a Judge; he ought to have been a Bishop."

Literature, whose office is to preserve the results of learning, knowledge and fancy, has made so little progress among us that there has not been much effort to save from oblivion the discussions at the bar or in the deliberative assemblies of the State, the chief theatres of public intellectual exertion besides the pulpit, and none at all as to those forensic displays at nisi prius, which, dealing with the facts and incidents of life, the dispositions, passions and souls of men, afford the noblest field for exhibitions of eloquence. Had Mr. Badger been emulous of posthumous fame, and bestowed half the time in reporting his speeches in the more important of his causes on the circuit, which Cicero recommends and practiced, in the preparation of his orations, the result would have been a most interesting contribution to American rhetorical literature. There are occasions enough within the recollection of many who are present, in Wake, Orange, Granville, Halifax and elsewhere, when his utterances, even if printed as delivered, would have formed a volume of no less interest than the speeches of Wirt or Emmet, Erskine or Curran; as well as afforded an insight into events, crimes, transaction of business and the state of society of our times, such as the muse of history derives from the records of courts of justice.

Two causes in the Circuit Court of the United States, in the days of Chief Justice Marshall, are especially remembered, which were among the themes of his most admired arguments, and in which he overcame the preconceived opinion of that great Judge, though impressed and supported by the acknowledged abilities, learning and persuasiveness of Gaston. These were the cases of Whitaker vs Freeman, an action for libel in twenty-five different Courts, and Latimer vs Poteat, one of a series of cases in ejectment, to recover immense bodies of land in the Western Counties, claimed by citizens of Northern States under purchases from speculators, who, it was alleged, had made their entries and procured grants before the extinction of the title of the Cherokee Indians, in violation of law; the defendants claiming, under grants from the State, after the admitted cession of the Indian title, and Mr. Badger being retained by the State to defend their interests. This latter case, involving the relations of North Carolina while a separate sovereignty, and afterwards of the United States with the Cherokee Indians, as regulated by sundry treaties, the location of several lines of partition between them and the whites agreed upon, but removed further and further West as the population of the superior race increased and emigration advanced, surveys partially or wholly made to establish these lines through a mountainous, and in many parts, an impervious country, imputed frauds in transgressing those laws, making entries without actual survey, and planting trees, the indigines of fertile soil, as corners on barren wastes, with affidavits that they were the native growth of the country, with divers other topics of dispute, was of exceeding volume and complication in its facts, and occupied near a week in the trial. The argument, running through four days, was said to be the most elaborate on both sides ever made in the State, in a jury trial. It resulted in a verdict and judgment for the defendant, which was afterwards affirmed in error in the Supreme Court of the United States. After the trial, Judge Marshall, in the simplicity and candor of his great character, observed to the then Governor of the State, "at the close of Mr. Gaston's opening argument I thought he had as good a case as I ever saw put to a jury, but Mr. Badger had not spoken two hours until he satisfied me that no one of his positions could be maintained."

To this instance of laudatus a laudato viro, I esteem it not improper to add a few others from sources only less eminent: Chief Justice Henderson declared in my presence that "to take up a string of cases, run through them, extract the principle contained in each, and discriminate the points in which they differed from each other, or from the case in hand, I have never seen a man equal to George Badger."

Judge Seawell remarked of him, "Badger is an elementary man," and, continuing in his peculiar and racy style, "he goes to first principles; he finds the corners of his survey, and then runs out the boundaries, while others hunt along the lines. The difference between him and myself is, that when I take up a book I read slowly, pausing at the end of each sentence, and when I have reached the bottom of a page I must stop and go back to see whether I fully comprehend the author's meaning,—while he reads it off like a novel, and by the time he gets to the bottom of a page or the end of a treatise, he has in his mind not only all that the author taught, but a good deal that the author never knew."

Chief Justice Ruffin, yet surviving in honorable retirement from the labors of the profession, whose early appreciation of the faculties of Mr. Badger we have already noticed and before whom, as a Judge of the Supreme Court, he was in full practice for twenty-three years, affirmed to me, since the death of Mr. Badger, that in dialectic skill and argument he excelled any individual with whom he had ever been acquainted, not even excepting Chief Justice Marshall himself, for that he possessed the faculty of imagination and capacities for illustration which Judge Marshall had not.

Another friend, to whom I am indebted for much that has been already stated of the early life of the subject of our memoir, asserts that "in an intimate association with him in the practice of the law for more than twenty-five years, I never knew him to mistake the testimony of a witness or the argument of his adversary, and I think I may add that he uniformly argued with entire logical integrity upon the premises his duty required him to assume."—Of his arguments in the Supreme Court of the United States, probably the most important were in controversy as to their boundary between the States of Georgia and Florida, and in the case involving the title to the Quick-silver mines of California.

His noble bearing as an advocate and elevation above all artifice, chicanery or unfair advantage will be amply attested by his brethren of the profession, who in the circuits, at least of his regular practice, trusted with entire confidence to the fidelity as well as accuracy of his reports of causes for the revision of Courts of appeal; and instances are remembered where the decision has been for his client and a statement of the cause made by the presiding judge happened to be less favorable to his adversary, than the facts justified, that it has been substituted by a case stated by him, and entered by consent as a more exact portraiture of the trial below.

To his hospitality and kind intercourse with the gentlemen of the profession, his liberality, and assistance to its junior members whom his gracious demeanor and familiar manners won, no less than his spirited and intelligent conversation entertained and improved, them; to his unselfish and genial nature and an integrity on which no temptation ever brought a stain, the occasion permits time only to allude, before closing our review of his professional life. Had he been called to the office of Attorney General of the United States, by General Jackson, at the period of his first election, of which Mr. Badger had been an ardent and efficient advocate, as many of his friends entertained expectation, and continued from that time his practice in the Supreme Court of the United States, it is hazarding but little to say that his fame would have equaled that of any advocate in the history of American Jurisprudence.

Of Mr. Badger's brief service at the head of the Navy Department, excepting his recommendation of the establishment of a Home Squadron to patrol the Gulf of Mexico, and West Indian seas, as a protection against piracy, and to be prepared for any sudden hostile demonstration on our coasts, in addition to those maintained on foreign stations, (a measure since adopted) there is no circumstance demanding special notice. He had accepted the appointment, at the request of President Harrison, with reluctance, retained it by the expressed desire of his successor, and resigned it as soon as the breach between Mr. Tyler and the party that elected him was found to be irreparable.

Equally unsought and unexpected was his election to the Senate of the United States, when absent from the seat of Government on a professional errand beyond the sphere of his usual practice. He entered the Senate in the first year of the war with Mexico,—held his seat throughout the conflict,—during the struggle which ensued as to the introduction of slavery into the Territories acquired by the treaty of peace, threatening then a dissolution of the Union, the compromise measures of 1850, under the leadership of Clay, the election of Gen. Taylor, the succession of Fillmore, the election of Pierce and the first half of his term, including the organization of Territorial Governments in Kansas and Nebraska. A period of more fierce, convulsive and (as the sequel has proved) fatal party agitation than any in American history, except the years that have succeeded it.

Even now, after the dreadful chastening that all have received from recent calamity, it is difficult to recur to it without reviving passions inconsistent with the solemnities of the hour, and the charities inspired by common suffering. On the one hand, it was maintained that inasmuch as these acquisitions of territory had been made by the common contribution of men and means from all the States, the citizens of any State were at liberty to emigrate and settle upon them and to carry any property they might possess, including slaves; that this was the case by virtue of the operation of the Constitution over the new territory proprio vigore. It was further declared that Congress had no authority to legislate in contravention of this right; and in the progress of the dispute this latter position was extended into the assumption, that it was the duty of Congress to enact laws to ensure it, and that a failure in this was a breach of Constitutional duty so gross as to justify the injured States in withdrawing from the Union; a power which, it was declared, that every State held in reservation and might exercise at pleasure, the Constitution being but a compact having no sanctions for its perpetuation.

NOTICE.

By virtue of a decree of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions of Johnston County, N. C., May Term, 1866, I will expose, at public Sale, on Tuesday the 29th. August 1866, (court week) at the Court House door, in Smithfield, in said County, on a credit of six months, the following Lands, viz:

One tract, containing about 860 Acres, and two thirds of another tract containing about 700 Acres, adjoining the above tract.

The said land runs within half a mile of the N. C. R. R., about five miles below Clayton Depot, on said road. It is Piney woods lands, and heavily timbered; about half of the first tract has never been boxed and only a small quantity of the large timber has been cut. Any one wishing to put up a Steam Saw Mill, or work Turpentine, could not find a better location.

Persons wishing to see the lands can do so, by calling on Mr. John Money, at Clayton or addressing me at Smithfield, N. C. Terms made known on day of sale.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, SEATON GALES. } Editors.

Saturday Evening, July 21, 1866.

FOR THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, AS IT IS, AND THE UNION AS IT WAS.
No FURTHER AMENDMENTS.

FOR GOVERNOR,

JONATHAN WORTH,

OF RANDOLPH.

Remember that the election for the ratification of the amended Constitution of North Carolina, will be held on the 2d., 3rd. and 4th of August next, throughout the State.

Gov. Graham's Oration.

We have the pleasure of laying before our readers, to-day, the admirable discourse delivered in the Commons Hall, on Thursday last, by the Hon. William A. Graham, upon the life and character of our late eminent fellow-citizen, the Hon. George E. Badger. It is a source of regret to us that the great length of the oration compels us to divide it; but it will appear as a whole in our Weekly edition.

The discourse is honorable alike to the dead statesman and the living one. All who were in any way familiar—and who, in North Carolina, was not?—with Mr. Badger's great intellectual powers, will recognize the faithfulness of the portrait drawn with so masterly a hand; and those who had the honor of an intimate acquaintance with him, will appreciate the just and glowing tribute paid to the noble qualities which adorned his private life.

The oration should be preserved by all, as a most valuable contribution to the biographical history of the times.

The "So-Called."

Years ago, before fanaticism and total disregard of the Constitution had infused its virus into the Legislative department of the government, there were few, North or South, in all the broad scope of the Republic, who did not most heartily subscribe to the patriotic sentiment, "I know no North, no South, no East, no West—nothing but the Union." As a political sentiment, in view of the claims of the common government upon all, both States and people, it may well be said to have promulgated the honest sentiment and feeling of our whole people.—But, even then, the various sections were distinguished by the terms North, South, East or West, and as Northern, or Southern, or Eastern, or Western States. Nor was it ever deemed, in that day, that the natural feelings which prompted our people to feel a peculiar home attachment for their native counties, or towns, or States, or sections, indicated a want of loyalty, (by the way, a new word as applied to American citizens,) or real patriotism towards the whole country, or to the common government. Had the same aims and purposes controlled the people, States and common government, at all times until the present, no other sentiment would have been heard in this once happy land.

But alas! how changed. Even Mr. Dick, of Guilford, whose political faith for years was formed and guided by the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of '98-'99, has grown so timid, so wary, and so fearful of events, that he cannot consent that office-holders under the State shall be simply required to take an oath to support the Constitution of the State, although the Constitution of the United States and the Revised Code of North Carolina required also the official recognition, by oath, of the supremacy of the U. S. Constitution. Such a course, he thought, tended to encourage extravagant and improper views of State sovereignty! What a discovery! Would he not have the names and governments of States blotted out altogether?—Is he ready, with his friend, the Ex-P. G., to change the government entirely to a central oligarchy or despotism,—to destroy all States and State rights altogether? Alas! for the resolutions of '98-'99.

The Standard, since the return of its Editor from Washington, has discovered there is no South and no Southern States. There is such a thing in its estimation as Northern States, Western States and "rebel" States, but no Southern States, and no South,—they are the "so-called." What a discovery by the "so-called" Standard, the "so-called" Provisional Governor and the "so-called" Minister to San Salvador!

THE CHICAGO Times, alluding to the proposed call for a convention of "Union Loyalists," so-called, says:

"If there be a "southern radical" convention in September of any respectability in numbers, it is certain that, apart from Tennessee and Missouri, the delegates will hail from the domain of the Puritans. They are down south stealing cotton; acting as agents in the freedmen's bureau; are praying over and collecting the odd and sparse silver quarters and halves of the negroes; and are writing letters to northern black republican newspapers in which it is stated that the south is yet in rebellion, and that Northern men cannot get into southern society.

There is not in the South a man who was born there and who has lived there, that will attend the "Southern radical" convention. No such man will ever consent to act with a party whose cardinal principle is the atrocious doctrine of making southern negroes equal to southern whites. No such man will ever attend a convention in the interest of a party that has just attempted to place an onerous export duty on cotton; that has denied the South representation; that knows no north, no south, no east, no west, no nothing save New England."

The Times is mistaken, we regret to say, in the belief that "there is not a man in the South who was born there, and who has lived there," that will attend this convention. Some of the names affixed to the call are of this class of men, and there are others in the State,—only a very few, however,—who actually sympathize with the movement. The general composition of the Convention, however, will be as the Times predicts.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Pulliam, Jones & Co', announce Porter Herrings, &c.

B. P. Williamson & Co., have a large quantity of fine meal on hand.

The first session of Thomasville Female College (Rev. D. R. Bruton, President, and Rev. Dr. N. F. Reid, Visitor,) will commence on the 7th day of August.

The attractive auction at D. C. Murray's Store will be continued on Monday.

ROBBERY.—We regret to learn that the smoke-house of R. W. Best, Esq., Secretary of State, was entered last night, and a large quantity of meat and other provisions stolen. Suspicion is entertained as to the depredators, and it is to be hoped the criminals will be detected and brought to punishment.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—We are indebted to C. G. Coleman, Jr., the courteous and accommodating Messenger of the National Express Co., for frequent favors in the way of papers in advance of the mails.

There was a fire in Williamston, on Wednesday night last, by which the store of Messrs. Charles & Dashfield was destroyed.

Col. Williams, "Fed Oss," at Plymouth, says: "First thing little Williams (editor of Expositor) knows, he will be in jail." Williams says he isn't scared much.

MURDER IN LENOIR.—We learn, from the Newbern papers, the particulars of another brutal murder in that section of the State, the victim being one Mr. Odum, living three miles from Kinston, in Lenoir county. A crowd of negroes went to the house of Mr. O., and took down his gun and shot him dead, his wife being in the same bed with him. After committing the murder they took his meat and such other things as they wanted and left. Mrs. O. thinks she can indentify some of the party, and parties are in pursuit with fair hopes of success, in bringing them to justice.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.—There is much doubt whether the people will consent to the addition of this office. Our information indicates, at present, that the amended Constitution will be rejected by the people. If so, no Lieutenant Governor will be elected. One or two radical presses ridicule our suggestion to leave the choice of the candidate to the gentlemen named for that office. We made our suggestion, to avoid the inconvenience of primary meetings and a Convention, simply to make the selection. We are willing to trust the gentleman named to make it, but would prefer primary meetings and a Convention, if the people adopt the Constitution and prefer a Convention.

COUNTERFEITS OF FRACTIONAL CURRENCY.—There is said to be an immense amount of spurious fractional currency in circulation throughout the South. A late Washington letter says:

"Reports received at the Treasury Department state that the Southern States are at present flooded with counterfeit United States notes, national bank notes and fractional currency of every denomination. One of the Treasury detectives, while on an official visit in one of the Southern States, observed that an immense quantity of this spurious money is circulating there among all classes, who with few exceptions, accept it as readily as the genuine. The detectives having received, while making some trifling purchases, nearly one half his change in counterfeit money, and being desirous of as certaining some estimate of the amount of this trash in circulation, seized upon the money "tills" of several merchants doing quite an extensive business, and discovered that about one-half their contents were counterfeit, which consisted of United States notes of the various issues and denominations of fractional currency, and quite a number of counterfeits on the national banks of the North and West. A postmistress in one of the Southern States recently returned to the Treasury $42 50, which she had received from the sale of internal revenue stamps, and upon examination $20 of the amount was detected as spurious, which, unfortunately for her, she must make good."

There is but one relief from this that we can suggest, and that is for those who know the counterfeits to refuse to receive them.

For the Sentinel.

The Philadelphia Convention.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I fully endorse the propriety of sending delegates to the National Union Convention at Philadelphia, on the 14th. of August next. That the results of that Convention will realize the full hopes and desires of every Southern man, or of any ultra Southern man, I do not believe. That even our moderate men will fully endorse, and gladly acquiesce in, everything that shall be said and done there, I do not entertain the slightest hope. Yet we ought to send delegates, if for no other reason, because we are invited in good faith to do so, and in the hope that, in the interchange of views between Northern and Southern conservatives, good may result.

One thing must be borne in mind: our people must not forget the character of the invitation, nor the class of delegates who are invited. Therefore, I beg that you will re-publish the call of the Committee of the National Union Club. Several things are important to be observed in the selection of delegates:

1. The delegates should be able and willing to defray their own expenses.

2. They should be known to endorse the programme or platform contained in the invitation.

3. They should be wise men, men of moderation and known to have maintained a consistent course.

4. They should be devoted friends of the President and of his policy, willing to surrender, for the sake of harmony, what may not conflict with the peace, the interest and honor of the State.

In looking around for men of the right type, in my judgment, to represent this District and the State, I cannot think of two gentlemen in this District, who come up more fully to my idea of the class of men to be sent, than Wm. Eaton Jr., Esq., of Warren, and Kemp P. Battle, Esq., of Wake. WAKE.

The total collections in aid of the Portland sufferers in the city of New York amounts to $108,000.

It is thought that the majority of Throckmorton, (Conservative) for Governor of Texas, will reach twenty thousand.

The Cession of Venetia.

The surrender of Venetia to France by the Emperor Francis Joseph is complete and unconditional, and was accepted by the French Emperor after deliberate negotiation with Prince Metternich at the Tuilleries. Venice has been proclaimed free, and a French squadron is ordered to immediately proceed to hoist the French flag at all points of the coast. The Austrian army stores are to be removed from the fortresses of the Quadrilateral, which will be garrisoned by French troops. Italy is notified to discontinue military operations in that quarter. This is not likely to suit Victor Emmanuel, unless there be some private understanding between him and Napoleon. But should he disregard the monition, France becomes necessarily a party to the war.

N. C. BANK NOTES IN RICHMOND.—Bank of the State, 34c.; Bank of Cape Fear, 22c.; Bank of Charlotte, 17c.; Bank of Clarendon, 2c.; Bank of Commerce, 12c.; Bank of Fayetteville, 8c.; Bank of Lexington, 8c.; Bank of Roxboro', 15c.; Bank of Thomasville, 20c.; Band of Wadesboro,' 15c.; Bank of Washington, 3c.; Bank of Wilmington, 14c.; Bank of Yanceyville, 4c.; Commercial, Bank, 13c.; Farmers' Bank, 20c.; Greensboro' Mutual, 3c.; Merchants' Bank, 35c., Miners' and Planters' Bank, 20.—Whig.

MR. MAURY AND GENERAL BEAUREGARD.—A private letter from Paris of a late date says: "It is rumored that the Emperor of France has offered Mr. Maury a good situation, and that it is probable he will not return to Mexico.

General Beauregard has been received by the Emperor in princely style. He has received honors never conferred on any stranger before."

The editor of the Newbern Times must be a sort of political saint. Speaking of the movement of the people to send delegates to the National Union Convention, he says:

"We have always been for the Union, are still for the Union, and shall always remain for the Union"—and it does our very soul good to see the impenitent as well as blacksliders returning, and with open arms and tearful eyes we can stand at the Union gate and exclaim, "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return."

Bully!—We will give any artist a newspaper puff, for a good charcoal sketch of this saintly editor standing in the "Union gate" with "tears in his eyes," &c., &c.

Hand us the Cologne!

Will some brother please raise "Old Father Grimes" to the air of the rogue's march.—Salisbury Banner.

Doctor Butler commences "playing trainer" in Massachusetts by issuing four General Orders to the officers of the State militia. The European war news has powerfully stimulated the Doctor, and he is brushing up his uniform for a fall campaign in an out of the way cornfield in the vicinity of Lowell.

The bronze statue of Washington, which was removed from the Lexington Institute by General Hunter, has been returned, and will be reinaugurated on the 10th of September, on which occasion ex-Governor Letcher will, at the request of the board, deliver an address.

BROWNLOW'S DECISION.—Advices have been received here from Nashville that it is Governor Brownlow's intention to keep the Legislature in session until they get a quorum, if it takes all summer.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Times.

John Stuart Mill pronounces Mr. Gladstone the greatest Parliamentary leader since the time of the Stuarts.

Federal General Buell has been beaten for vice-president of the Southern Telegraph Company by Confederate General Buckner.

While the telegraph is telling us that the war in Europe is over, some of the exchanges which are reaching us are announcing its commencement.

"Since so very soon I'm done for,
I wonder what I was begun for."

Our Saturday Morning Despatches.

Congress,—Admission of Tennessee,—More Radical Venom, &c., &c.

NEW YORK, July 20., P. M.

SENATE.—The Senate concurred in the report of the committee of Conference on the Diplomatic Appropriation bill, by which the mission to Portugal is abolished,—the minister, James E. Harony, having strongly endorsed the President in a letter to Secretary Seward, which found its way into print.

HOUSE.—The House passed, by a vote of 125 against 12, the joint resolution restoring Tennessee to her former proper and practical relations to the Union, and declaring her again entitled to representation by Senators and Representatives, duly elected and qualified, upon their taking the oaths of office required by existing laws. The result was received by general applause on the floors and in the galleries. The resolution was sent to the Senate for concurrence.

The amendatory tariff bill from the House was reported, with an amendment suspending the collection of the direct tax, imposed by the act of 1861, until January 1868.

The bill heretofore reported from the Committee on Reconstruction, specifying the terms on which the Southern States may be admitted, was laid on the table by a large majority.

The House also tabled Stevens' resolution, providing for a recess of Congress until Dec. 1, and giving the presiding officers of both Houses authority to convene the members at an earlier period, should they deem it necessary, by a vote of 48 against 75.

Nominations by the President.

WASHINGTON, July 20, P. M.

The President, to-day, sent to the Senate, for confirmation, the nomination of Henry Stansberry, of Ohio, for the position of Attorney General.

The President has also nominated Joseph S. Wilson, as Commissioner of the Land office, in place of Judge Edmunds, removed on account of his extreme radicalism.

Resignation of Gen. Rousseau.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

IS a concentrated extract of the choice root, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effectual antidote for diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. Such a remedy is surely wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove, as this has, of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found in the following complaints:

Scrofula, Scrofulous Swellings and Sores, Skin Diseases, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Eruptions, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, &c.

Syphilis or Venereal Disease is expelled from the system by the prolonged use of this Sarsaparilla, and the patient is left in comparative health.

Female Diseases are caused by Scrofula in the blood and are often soon cured by this Extract of Sarsaparilla.

Do not discard this invaluable medicine, because you have been imposed upon by something pretending to be Sarsaparilla, while it was not. When you have used Ayer's—then, and not till then, will you know the virtues of Sarsaparilla. For minute particulars of the diseases it cures, we refer you to Ayer's American Almanac, which the agents below named will furnish gratis to all who call for it.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS, for the cure of Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Heartburn arising from Disordered Stomach, Pain or Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, and for a Dinner Pill.

They are sugar coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and they are the best Aperient in the world for all the purposes of a family physic.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., and sold by Williams & Haywood, P. F. Pescud, Raleigh, N. C., and Dealers generally.

MAGGIEL'S CHILLS AND FEVER PILLS!

Maggiel's Fever and Ague Pills!

MAGGIEL'S FEVER AND AGUE

PILLS!!

THESE famous remedies, known throughout the great West of the United States for their extraordinary cures of

are now thoroughly introduced in the State of North Carolina, and can be obtained of all enterprising, first class druggists.

They act as a tonic to all debilitated systems, taken in doses of

before meals, and should be found in every family residing in miasmatic districts.

To any skeptic or one who does not believe in these marvelous preparations,

A Box Will be sent Free

If he is not cured with one and not more than two boxes, no charge will be made. The price of the Pills is high—say but as they are a perfect cure without trouble or inconvenience, the charge is reasonable enough.

Address J. MAGGIEL, M. D., 43 Fulton St.,
New York.

CAUTION.

Watch narrowly and guard yourselves vigilantly against counterfeits. I have just suppressed a notorious counterfeit in Wisconsin, after much trouble and expense. Purchase of only first class druggists and never of peddlers or traveling dealers.

THE EMPIRE SHINGLE MACHINE.

18 acknowledged to be, by all odds, the best Shingle Machine in America With only ONE HORSE POWER

per hour are easily made. The machine is built entirely of Iron, very compact and easily transported. It works VENEERS, STAVES and Box STUFF, and out of the same number of bolts of timber, one third more Shingles are made than can be done by the Sawing Machines. All the saw dust is saved by the Empire and goes into the Shingles.
